Girls who have to stand on their feet most of the time work as hard as any day-laborer yet they do not get what is rightly called exercise. Close, confining, indoor occupation gives no exhilaration to the nervous system nor active circulation to the blood. It wears, tears and drags a woman's life away. The whole physical system grows sluggish and torpid under it.

No wonder so many sales girls and factory girls and housewives suffer from indigestion and constipation and bilious troubles. No wonder they are subject to the diseases of the delicate special organism of their sex. The wonder is rather that they can stand it as well as they do.

But "a poor weak woman," as she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most eminent medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the "Invalide" Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. Occupying this position for thirty years he has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. His "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only permanent digestive and nutrient tonic. The two medicines taken alternately, form the most perfect and successful course of treatment ever prescribed for female troubles complicated with a sluggish, overwrought, nervous, diseased constitution. In severe constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be occasionally taken with the others. They never gripe.

The Country Clergyman.

An old clergyman who had held a cure in the depths of the country for the greater part of his life had occasion to consult his bishop on a certain matter, and, in answer to his letter, received an invitation to sleep the night at the palace. For 40 or 50 years he had practically led the life of a recluse, and it was after many cogitations that he decided to take the journey to the other end of the diocese, where the bishop lived. He arrived just in time for 5 o'clock tea, a meal to which he was a complete stranger.

After tea the bishop asked him to accompany him to the house. When they returned to the house, the bishop, remarking that it was quite time they went up stairs, lit a candle and showed his guest to his room. It was then just 7 o'clock, and, though the old clergyman thought it was rather early to retire, still, admiring the bishop for such simple habits, he prepared for bed. He had just put out the light and lain down to sleep, wishing he had drunk a little more tea, when a booming noise rang through the house and smote upon his ear.

Quick as thought he sprang from his bed and, shouting "Fire!" at the top of his voice, rushed out on to the landing just in time to meet the bishop, with a lady on his arm, going down to dinner. The sequel to the story has never been divulged.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Lost Opportunity.

It was near one of the large railroad stations. A man rather advanced in years, whose old fashioned attire and open mouthed wonderment proclaimed that he was a visitor from the rural districts and not accustomed to the everyday sights of a large city, was suddenly accosted by a sharp visaged youth with, "Mister, yer dropped yer wallet." As he spoke he held forth a large wallet well stuffed with old revenue stamps covered with a couple of dollar bills. Uncle Rubie looked at the greenbacks bulging out of the wallet with equally protruding eyes, hesitated just one moment, and then, his cupidily evidently getting the better of him, reached for it. "Hold on; give us a tanner first," exclaimed the possessor of the wallet. The old man quickly put his hand in his trousers pocket; but, after a moment, drawing forth his empty hand, he drawled out, "Take it out of the wallet."

The youth, closing the wallet with ill concealed disgust, turned on his heel and hurried off. The stranger in town looked after the youth a moment, and then, muttering, "Gol darn! Missed it ag'in. I told Sal I'd need more'n $3," he resumed his peaceful way.—Phila delphia Record.

Really a Kind Man.

"Did you see anything of a pocket-book that I dropped somewhere in the bedroom I occupied last night, land-lord?"

"Any money in it?"
"About $100."
"Yes, sir. Here is your pocketbook, with the money. The maid was honest enough to bring it to me, and I locked it up in the safe."
"Ah, very correct proceeding, very. I had intended placing the money in the bank this morning, where it would have been drawing 4 per cent. As a reward for your honesty I will say nothing about the interest for the time it has been in your possession, and you can make it square with the chambermaid. There is nothing small about me when I run across a man who seems to be trying to do what's right."—London Telegraph.

Flattering.

Reggie's Fiancee—You know, Reggie, that girls are being called by the names of flowers now, and my sister suggested that I should be called Thistle. Reggie—Oh, yes, I see—because you are so sharp.
She—Oh, no! She said it was because a donkey loved me.—Pick Me Up.

Some of the arguments advanced by the Stewart press why he should be returned against the express wish of the people of the State, are models of ingenious sophistry.

To their view Newlands has been guilty of treachery because he dares to aspire to the Senatorship after Stewart had failed to carry a majority of the Legislature. By the same process of reasoning, he would still be ineligible as a candidate had Stewart failed to carry a single vote in that body. But let us examine into this alleged treachery. It was well known among all who were at all posted in political matters, that prior to the meeting of the convention the Stewart forces were opposing Newlands with might and main and were endeavoring to secure sufficient strength to down Newlands in the convention for the nomination for Congress. The writer was a delegate to that convention and knows whereof he speaks. The reasons given at that time were that it was needed to hold Newlands in line and quiet the Senatorial bee which even at that time was said to be buzzing in his bonnet, and by showing as strong a hand read him out of the party if he dared to oppose them. The ruse was successful in so far as it intimidated Newlands into withdrawing himself from the Senatorial fight before the convention, but we fail to see wherein the same unfair means which were used to force him out of the race before the convention should apply now. Even his bitterest opponent cannot point to a word or act on his part which can be construed into an opposition to Stewart before the election. On the other hand, it is generally believed that Stewart furnished the means to enable Wren to make a fight for Congress against Newlands. At any rate that gentleman touched very lightly on Stewart, and where he could not excuse he did not blame. It is also a notable fact that Mr. Wren, a short time before the convention met declared that he was financially unable to make the canvass for Congress, but shortly afterwards accepted the nomination from the Democrats.

In their zeal some of the papers are outdoing Herod the Virginia Report has the exquisite nerve to state that it is the most ingratiate on the part of the Democracy to oppose Stewart on his vote on the Dingley bill because he was open and above board in his support of that infamous measure. Wren Stewart, with his unlimited glib, made the effort to go to that length, but quoted Senator Tillman of South Carolina that "if there was going to be a tariff he wanted something for his State." Accordingly, Stewart traded his balance of power for a tariff on borax, when he could have had free coinage or blocked tariff legislation. Again, the same paper says the Democrats of Nevada owe Stewart a debt they can never pay for his vote on the Lodge Force bill. As a matter of fact the tariff on borax would have been placed there whether Stewart had voted for the bill or not. Indeed, it was in the bill before it was known that Stewart's vote was needed to secure its passage. Anyway the extra bill, borax clause and all, does not benefit 100 actual residents and voters in the State, while every man, woman and child is taxed from 15 to 20 per cent. additional for all the necessities of life. It is true he voted for the Force bill as did also Senator Stanford whose railroad connections in the South made it his interest to do so. It was only natural that he should follow in the wake of his master. But supposing he did vote conscientiously as we to set him up on a pedestal and fall down and worship him because for once in his twenty odd years' service he did his duty and voted correctly, and that once on a question in which we had nothing more than a sentimental interest? If this sort of logic were carried out to the other extreme we should have naged him for his vote demagogizing silver, for that repelling the bland act, and for voting for the Funding bill and lastly for his support of the Dingley bill.—Times Review

"HAD AGREED."

Before Senator Stewart left Washington the Omnibus Bill conference committee unanimously agreed to report favorably on every claim emanating from Nevada. The Senator was one of the committee. The Pante War and other claims of that description are a bill.—Report

"Had agreed" but not reported. That same old Pante War claim was doing yeoman's service in Senatorial contests before the editor of the Report was born, and still it comes up smiling and fresh as ever in the last year of the century. But few of the people mentioned in the bill are living and the chances are that all of their grandchildren will have been gathered to their fathers before that time worn old fossils will cease to be made a factor in Senatorial elections. Certainly not while William M. Stewart remains on deck. Who was it that said that something about somebody who "never was, but always to be blessed?"

How Typographical Errors Occur. Every column in a newspaper contains from ten to twelve thousand distinct pieces of metal, the displacement of one of which would cause a blunder or typographical error. When some people find a word with a wrong letter in it, or a misplaced word, they are sure they could have spelled that word, and they are happy for a while, and go around telling how the editor spelled a word wrong.—Ex.

GUARDING AGAINST FRAUD.

How London Bankers Lessen the Chances for Embezzlement.

"Very few people know that there are a great and increasing number of firms in this country—banking firms especially—who make an inflexible rule that all employees, whether they be managerial heads or mere junior clerks, must take an annual holiday."

The speaker was one of the best known accountants in London, and he continued: "The reason is that all great employers now realize that most long continued cases of embezzlement and breach of trust are only, as a rule, discovered through the offender being compelled, through illness or some other cause, to leave his books for a time."

"Nearly all defauling bank managers are trapped through their enforced absence, and thus it has begun to be the rule for employers to insist that servants who have the manipulation of books and money must go away. Hundreds of sets of books come into my hands and those of other accountants in this way, and I could tell you of many cases where two or more clerks, who could in their ordinary work play into each other's hands, are sent holiday making at the same time."

"Another fact of the same kind that is little known is that many employers make a rule of having their employees photographed very plainly in groups every year or two—on some occasion of festivity that is made the excuse—so that the firm always possess a valuable means of identification in case of any man absconding."—Pearson's Weekly.

AMERICA'S RAPHAEL.

A Picture Which, It Is Said, Has Yet to Be Discovered.

There is one picture in America which, for convenience's sake, may be designated "Fata Morgana." It is frequently alluded to and always in a tone of reverent admiration. When one is in New York one hears of it as in Boston. When one is in Boston one hears of it as either in New York or Philadelphia. If the quest be pursued in these cities the picture is said to be located in Baltimore and so forth. What is this mysterious work which would appear to be considered as the chief treasure of art in America? It is a wholly imaginary Raphael. I found the most rooted conviction in all so-called "art circles" that America is the happy possessor not only of a Raphael, but of a superbly fine example of that master, and, as already indicated, the picture is not only alluded to with pride, but with an admiration that is akin to awe.

It is unfortunate that the picture does not exist, except in the fervent transatlantic imagination. In a word, there is no Raphael in America. Strangely enough, there are very few forgeries even, the one or two canvases with any approach to the manner of the great Italian master being so obviously imitative that no one with any adequate knowledge of his work could possibly be deceived. It is, however, a pleasant fiction, and enables patriotic Americans in Europe to enlarge upon the superb masterpieces overseas.—Nineteenth Century

Woe to That Dressmaker!

You may talk about naval heroes and rough rides all you like, but for superhuman nerve and colossal daring commend me to a woman I saw in a dry goods shop here in town only last Monday morning. I had an excellent opportunity to observe her carefully, for she stood precisely where I desired to stand while she—well, this is what she did. She asked the salesman to show her a certain piece of red cashmere. Then she produced from her pocket the cut paper pattern of a child's dress and calmly pinned the pieces to the cloth.

The salesman stood politely by, thinking, if a salesman ever had time to think, that she desired to ascertain the quantity required for the garment she intended to make, but she didn't intend to make any garment at all. After she had pinned the whole pattern carefully in place, she took it off and rolled it up. There was a gleam of triumph in her eye.

"Thank you," she said. "That's all I wanted. I know it didn't take four yards. That dressmaker has just kept that extra yard and a half, that's what she's done."

But my, my! Think of a dressmaker reckless enough to try to deceive a woman like that!—Washington Post.

Caught.

A clergyman recently, addressing those who criticize others while they themselves are open to criticism, told this story: "When I was a boy, we had a schoolmaster who had odd ways of catching idle boys. Says he one day: 'Boys, I must have closer attention to books. The first one of you that sees another boy idle I want you to inform me and I will attend to the case.' 'Ah,' thought I to myself, 'there's Joe Simmons, that I don't like. I'll watch him, and if I see him look off his book I'll tell on him.'"

"It was not long before I saw Joe look off his book, and immediately I informed the master. 'Indeed,' said he, 'how did you know he was idle?' 'I saw him,' was the reply. 'You did. And were your eyes on your book when you saw him?' I was caught, but I didn't watch for the boys again."—New York Tribune

A Nautilus Explanation.

In front of the Theater Royal at Oxford, England, are, or were, some gigantic stone figures, the age and object of which are buried in oblivion. Two sailors were going by and one of them asked, "Who are these fellows, Bill?" "The 12 apostles," was the reply without a smile.

"Twelve apostles!" roared the incredulous Jack. "How can that be? There's only six of 'em."

"Well, y' swab," replied the learned Bill, "yer wouldn't have 'em all on deck at once, would ye?"—Leeds Mercury

His Only Alternative.

Little Dot was very fond of Bible stories, and one day after her mother had read the story of Lot's wife she asked, "Mamma, what did Mr. Lot do when his wife was turned into a pillar of salt?"

"What do you think, he did?" asked mamma.

"Why," replied the practical little miss, "I s'pose he went out and hunted up a bush one."—Chicago News.

We are pleased to learn that Doctor Stubbs, who has been greatly afflicted with rheumatism for some weeks, has recovered sufficiently to attend to his duties at the opening of the University at the holiday vacation, but the JOURNAL is of the opinion that the doctor, as usual, is overtaxing his strength.

It is said Col. Chilton is closely guarding Senator Stewart, presumably with pistol and knife. Is it possible that Bill Stewart of old Comstock fame and dark deeds has become a coward in his old age, or is he haunted by specters that arise on his vision recounting deeds in the past, that will not be entered in Stewart's biography or become a part of the history of the old lode?

On Monday next a Nevada legislature will convene at Carson City that will do honor to the State, or cover it with disgrace. It will be in the power of the men who assemble at the capital to free our beloved State from the hands of corrupt and designing men, who, have enslaved our people and made them a byword in the land; or they can, by their votes on Senator, say, we are Nevadans and have no respect for ourselves or for the people.

Quarterly Meetings of the Seventh Day Adventists

The Seventh Day Adventist Society have just held their quarterly meeting which was a refreshing season to those present. Elder J. S. Harnow of Woodland, Cal., occupied the time Friday evening, which was their first meeting, taking as his text Acts 1:4, especially the last part connecting other scriptures with it showing what the promise of the Father was and that we are living in a time when we should expect to realize the fulfillment of it as never before.

Elder S. Thurston of Los Angeles occupied the time on Sabbath morning before celebrating the Ordinance. He selected two texts Luke 13:25 and John 1:36 clauses. From the first text the leading thought was the momentous times in which we are living, the importance of self examination, how little we know when the door of mercy might be closed, and where would we be found, outside with an empty profession, knocking for admittance, or safe in the fold of Jesus. The central thought from the second text was, we were to behold the Lamb of God in the person of His children, and through the bread and fresh grape juice then before them, which were emblems of the broken body and spilled blood of Him who died for us. As they partook of the emblems there was a profound solemnity pervaded the house such as I never witnessed before. In fact there was a deep moving of the Spirit such as is seldom witnessed, and as a result eight gave their hearts to God.

Sunday they held a meeting for the election of officers and to transact any regular business which might be necessary. Their election of officers proved unanimous.

Their finances showed prosperity, they being in debt on only one line of work, which was less than five dollars, while their report showed something like seventy five dollars in the treasury. They adopt the Bible plan of raising means, which they say brings prosperity. I could not help saying, "a Bible loving people." Sunday evening at their closing meeting three more gave their hearts to God.

AN EYE WITNESS.

Nevada State Medical Society.

The Nevada State Medical Society held its semi annual meeting in Carson last Monday, those in attendance were as follows.

From Reno, Drs. Bergstein, Fee, Phillips, Pinniger and Hershiser. Carson; Drs. Guinan, Huffaker and Cox.

Virginia; Dr. Mansen. The morning session was devoted chiefly to the election of new members and officers.

The following names were proposed for membership, Dr. W. H. Hood of Battle Mountain, Dr. Gardner and Dr. Hood of Elko, Dr. Morgan of Cortez, Dr. Cox of Carson, Dr. Hershiser of Reno.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Dr. G. Fee, President; Dr. A. Huffaker, Vice President; Dr. H. Bergstein, Treasurer and Secretary.

A fine banquet was given to the Society by the Carson members.

The afternoon session was devoted to the discussion of medical subjects which was greatly appreciated by those present. The society as a body regretted that the laws of the State were not more strictly enforced regarding the examination and filing of diplomas in the various counties. It should be to the interest of all to see that no one be allowed to practice medicine in the State unless he can present a diploma from a recognized medical college. It would be well if the various District Attorneys and County Clerks of the State would pay more attention to this matter. The Society will meet in Reno next July.

"Under the Dome."

"Under the Dome," Lincoln J. Carter's sensational comedy drama, will be the attraction at McKissick's Opera House next Friday evening. It is a naval play, the main incidents of which were suggested by the attempted seizure of the Samoan islands by the German government in 1888 and 1889. Several scenes of the play are worthy of a deal more than passing notice. One of these showing the passage of a ferryboat from Jersey City to New York, is said to be absolutely perfect in every detail. The passage is made at night. When the boat first leaves the slip in Jersey City, the huge black outlines of the buildings on the opposite shore and their thousands of dimly glowing lights can just barely be seen. As the boat pushes out into the stream and comes closer to the landing the outlines of the buildings assume more and more definite shape and the lights of the city grow brighter and larger until the clanking of the iron gates and the lock wheel announce the arrival. The effect is as if the audience had been carried in the boat. Another pretentious scenic effect is the representation of that awful calamity in the harbor of Apia, Samoa, which cost the lives of 144 brave seamen and which wrecked the men-of-war, Vandala, Nipsic and Prenton, and the German Adler, Eber and Olga.

A Thief Caught.

A negro who gives his name as Chas. Williams, was yesterday arrested by Constable McNeeley and his deputy, Chas. Leeper. The man had stolen an overcoat, valise, umbrella and other personal property belonging to Mr. Guilan, a conductor on the S. P. The thief took the property from train No. 4. He had tried to sell some of the articles and was leaving town when caught.

BREVITIES.

On yesterday more snow came to moisten the earth and gave our ranchmen more assurance of an abundant harvest next Summer.

On yesterday a freight train was wrecked near Council Bluffs and three men were killed. The train boys take many chances of being killed or crippled for life.

To properly know the effect produced on the human mind by observing the antics of an old fraud and the manly bearing of a gentleman, go to Carson and study the Senatorial candidates.

Board of Pardons.

The Board of Pardons at its meeting on Monday considered the applications for pardon of the following named applicants:

Victor Brenso, Washoe, pardoned. Daniel Mandich, Lincoln, denied. Yee Sow, Esmeralda, denied. James McCarthy, Storey, continued until July.

The applications of Thos. Woodliff, Joe Delar, James Mahoney, J. T. Connors and E. S. Kendrick were taken up yesterday.

District Court.

The case of Mrs. C. Thomas vs Mrs. J. Blaisdell, was taken up yesterday and will be continued at 10 A. M. today.

The case of Henry Anderson vs McNeeley, will be taken up to-day.

The case of Philomena Hoffman vs Becker Brewing Co, was continued yesterday evening.

A General Storm.

Last night's telegraphic reports indicate that yesterday's snow storm was quite general. The snow in the mountains is deep enough to block trains, a freight train stuck in "the beautiful" just this side of Tunnel 13 delayed passenger train No. 1 for over an hour last night.

Cleveland at Work.

Cleveland is at Carson to take a hand in the Senatorial contest and will, without a doubt, give Col. Quinn, barring pistols and knives, a little of the fine work of a Nevadan in politics that the Kentuckian may not approve of when the results are counted.

In the prize fight last night between Sharkey and McCoy, the latter was knocked out in the tenth round.

Great Shooters of Europe.

In Europe, where the question of a game supply does not enter into consideration, killing for count is recognized as legitimate and sportsmanlike. He is considered to have made a record of honor who has bagged the largest numbers of birds or other game. Thus we read of one Trautmannsdorff—Prince Carl Trautmannsdorff—who has to his credit for a single day's shooting the slaughter of 862 head of game, with the best bag of pheasants, 308; of partridges, 632; of hares, 416; of rabbits, 638; of roebuck, 12; of fallow deer, 20, and of blackcock, 14, and a best year's count of 10,883 head of assorted game. Another record snasher is Earl de Gray, whose exploits have been duly tabulated for a series of years, from 1867 to 1895. His pheasants score was 111,119, with 89,401 partridges, 47,468 grouse, 26,747 rabbits, and as many hares, 2,795 snipe, 2,077 woodcock, 1,893 wild duck, 567 deer, 12 buffalo, 11 tigers, a couple of rhinoceroses, and 9,000 assorted, making a total of 316,699 for the entire period, or about 11,000 annually. This is a record which the most industrious market shooter in this country would needs work hard to equal. In very truth the noble sportsman must have been a monomaniac in the field. Yet for all his slaughter the game supply where he shot has not been permanently diminished.—Forest and Stream.

How Indians Swear Fluently.

It is said that a certain tribe of Indians have a useful divinity which they call a swearing god. It is very small, equally ugly and even more convenient. It generally stands on a pedestal or is nailed to the wall of the living room, and the use of the picturesque language in its presence is accounted not a sin, but a pious duty. Thus if an Indian bruises his finger, or his cayuse steps into a prairie dog's hole and wickedly breaks his leg, he confines himself to general remarks on the weather until he reaches home and sees again the comforting face of the grinning devil. Then he becomes suddenly possessed of the eloquence of a male driver, and the things that he says would make any ordinary effigy shrivel up with horror, but the swearing god is used to it.

After all, so called civilized beings are not so far beyond the Indian. When we get angry at a man we burn him in effigy, or hang up a doll whose distorted features convey our impressions of his

We, the undersigned, do solemnly declare and agree to close our respective establishments at 6 o'clock P. M. every day, Saturday excepted. An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dann's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display, of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opalotypes, small autotypes and lovely porcelains. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of this? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it?
